

I am writing to express my utter dismay regarding Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. This is a clear example of partisan corporate interests infiltrating our public airwaves and it's an affront to a democracy

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy. The media should serve our own communities and air more substantive news about issues that matter.

I hope that the FCC will take action against these kind of practices in the media and strengthen laws to prevent this kind of blatant corporate self-interest in favor of real journalism.
